Effective October 1, Ambar Partners will incorporate Manel Atserias Luque, founder of the Mental Health Institute of Legal Professions (ISMA-MHILP), as Culture & Wellbeing advocate, with the aim of turning the law firm into a reference company in the field of sustainability. He will lead the firm's Corporate Social Responsibility, as well as the communication and design of activities related to mental health and wellbeing of the legal profession.

The incorporation is in line with Ambar Partners' commitment to implement a sustainable work model that promotes health and work-life balance. Their co-CEOs, Rosa Espín and Manuel Deó highlighted that: "The incorporation of Manel will reinforce our strategy in terms of sustainability and will contribute to furthering our work-life balance policies which aim to preserve the mental health of our lawyers."

Manel Atserias (pictured) thanked them for their appointment: "I love the project and it is an exciting challenge. I am joining Ambar Partners with the aim of making it an international reference in the field of sustainability by providing the latest trends in welfare and mental health." Manel has worked in recent years in the ISMA-MHILP association; which he chaired and of which he is still a member.

Manel Atserias graduated in Law from the Universitat Pompeu Fabra and holds a Master's degree in Legal Sciences from the same university. During these studies, he had the opportunity to carry out an academic stay at the University College Dublin Sutherland School of Law within the framework of the "Comparative, International, and European Law" Exchange Program for almost four months.
