The acquisition includes 100% of Lausan with all its assets, including all its warehouses and delegations

Andersen has advised Lausan, the main distributor of multi-brand spare parts in Spain, on the sale of the company to the international group Alliance Automotive Group (AAG).

The transaction, after more than a year of negotiations, has been closed with the sale of 100% of Lausan with all its assets, including all its warehouses and delegations, while the management of the company will remain unchanged.
