Andersen will open an office in Malaga to reinforce its presence in the south of Spain, thus responding to the needs of its clients who are looking for a reference in this area.

Through this opening, the firm reaches a new milestone in the expansion strategy initiated two years ago, extending coverage to Malaga for the development of business both in Andalusia and throughout Spain, where it already has offices in Madrid, Valencia, Barcelona and Seville, and even Lisbon.

The new Malaga office will open its doors in the first weeks of 2023 in the area of Larios and under the direction of José Miguel Soriano, partner of the litigation area, who until now has been working in the Madrid office. Also, Fernando Taboada, a specialist in public law and urban planning and until now managing partner of the Malaga office of Cremades & Calvo Sotelo, will join the new location.
