BDO Abogados has appointed Carolina Revenga (pictured right) as the new director of the litigation department, from where she will lead the litigation teams in the insurance and pharmaceutical sectors.

With more than fifteen years of professional experience, Carolina Revenga holds a law degree from Universidad Complutense de Madrid, a master's degree in corporate legal consultancy, is a CEDR accredited mediator and founder and member of the FIDE mediation centre.

Her professional career began at Davis Arnold & Cooper, in 2009 she moved to the firm Hogan Lovells and, over the last few years, Revenga has advised insurance and reinsurance companies and defended their interests before the courts in different jurisdictions in relation to all types of claims.

"Companies need not only transversal but also specialised advice. Our obligation as 'partners' of our clients is to offer them the best legal advice and Carolina, a benchmark in this type of disputes, will be able to accompany pharmaceutical companies and insurers on this stormy road," said BDO Abogados' litigation partner, Pablo Albert (pictured left).
