A Clifford Chance cross-border team, from Madrid and Washington DC offices, has advised

Greenergy Renovables on the financing of a portfolio of projects located in Chile

The portfolio consists of several solar photovoltaic projects with a combined minimum capacity of approximately 120MW, once fully constructed and operational.

The financing consisted of, among other components, a credit agreement entered into with Natixis New York Branch for an approximate amount of USD$90,950,000 subject to laws of the State of New York.
