Cerejeira Namora, Marinho Falcão started working on the first day of 2021 in the new premises of his most recent Lisbon office, located in the Castilho Building at the crossroad between Castilho and Braamcamp streets.

This office represents an alignment with the firm's growth strategy planned for the coming years, and beyond that, according to Nuno Cerejeira Namora, "is a serious commitment to the city of Lisbon where our activity has been growing in recent years and where customers look forward for a faster and more demanding response from us."

Pedro Marinho Falcão expressed that "this demonstrates the resilience we have been adopting against the adversities of the pandemic, as well as reinforces the vote of confidence that customers place in our ability to create value in any market. Today, more than ever, we are prepared to respond to any challenge".

The new Lisbon office was designed to privilege common areas and client spaces, aligned with the growth strategy for the years to come.
