After their expansion to Porto at the end of 2020, CRS has now opened an office in the Algarve. The firm will have in the south of Portugal, a team of lawyers specialised in the Private Client area, given the growing demand for these clients in the Algarve region. They will be focused on the Industrial, Real Estate and Tourism sectors.

Nuno Pereira da Cruz (pictured), managing partner of CRS Advogados said: "In recent years we have been gaining notable clients in the south of the country, especially in the Algarve, and this growing position of CRS gives us strength and increases expectations on the bet in this region."

The office will be coordinated by founding partner Telmo Guerreiro Semião, a native of the Algarve who knows the region, its economy and opportunities. The partner added that: "This expansion is a bet by CRS Advogados on the recovery of the local economy and the resilience of companies, believing that they will grow and know how to transform adversity into opportunities."
