Cuatrecasas and EY have counseled Spanish fintech company Crealsa on its sale to IMAN Capital

IMAN Capital Partners has, along with a group of investors, acquired a majority stake in Spanish fintech company Crealsa Investments.

However, as Iberian Lawyer could confirm, José Molina and Javier Chisbert, co-founders of Crealsa, will continue to hold a significant stake in the company, with Molina as CEO.

Cuatrecasas and EY counseled Crealsa while IMAN was advised by Arcano, Gómez-Acebo y Pombo, KPMG and Capgemini.

Cuatrecasas' team was led by partner Fernando Mínguez (pictured).
