Cuatrecasas has signed a collaboration agreement with the Spanish FinTech and InsurTech Association (Aefi) under which it will provide legal advice and support services

Cuatrecasas has thus become one of Aefi's legal partners, providing advice to both the association and its members. In addition to the communication, collaboration and promotion activities that will be carried out jointly on topics of interest to the sector, Cuatrecasas will promote innovative solutions in the field of LegalTech and defend common interests for Spanish FinTechs and InsurTechs.

Aefi's chairman, Rodrigo García de la Cruz, said he was "very pleased" to have reached this agreement: "I believe that together we can broaden our scope to support not only Fintech and Insurtech, but also Legaltech, a sector that will undoubtedly become more important in the current scenario," he said.

Jorge Canta, partner and coordinator of the financial regulation practice at Cuatrecasas, stressed that the firm "is a renowned player in the Finance and New Technology sector and has some of the leading FinTech companies in Europe among its clients."
