Dentons has signed Eduardo Gómez de Enterría, from Herbert Smith Freehills, as partner to lead Dentons' Employment and Labour practice in Spain

Dentons has recruited partner Eduardo Gomez de Enterría as head of the Employment and Labour area in Spain. He will be based in Madrid.

"Spain is a strategic market for Dentons, and our European leadership is committed to investing in top talent to grow our key practices. We are delighted to welcome a lawyer of Eduardo's calibre to lead our Employment and Labour practice," said Jabier Badiola, Spain Managing Partner at Dentons. "As we begin to emerge from the COVID-19 pandemic, this is a critical time for our clients, and we are ready to support them in the challenging times ahead."

Eduardo Gomez de Enterría (pictured) joins Dentons from Herbert Smith Freehills, where he was a partner and head of the Employment practice in Madrid. He advises on recruitment, dismissals, health and safety, pension plans and employee incentive schemes. He is particularly well respected for his work in the negotiation and implementation of collective bargaining agreements, collective dismissals, and corporate restructuring. He also represents clients in Labour disputes.

He brings significant international experience, having advised leading Spanish companies on their operations across Europe and in Latin America, as well as international companies with subsidiaries in Spain.

Eduardo Gómez de Enterría is specialized in Negotiation at Harvard University and teaches Collective Negotiation and Corporate Restructuring at the Instituto de Empresa.
