The Boards of Directors of Neinor Homes and Quabit Inmobiliaria have approved the joint merger plan for the absorption of Quabit by Neinor. The transaction will be structured through an exchange of shares. Neinor will issue new shares and deliver those to the owners of class A shares of Quabit. As a result, Neinor Homes will continue to be listed on the continuous market and will incorporate joint assets for a value of approximately €2 billion.

Through this merger by absorption, Neinor Homes consolidates itself as the largest national developer and reinforces its footprint in the Centre (Madrid and Corredor del Henares) and the Malaga/ Costa del Sol regions.

The merger process will be submitted for approval at the General Shareholders' Meetings of both companies, expected to be held by late March/early April. If approved, Neinor will own a joint land bank with the capacity to build more than 16,000 housing units.

The existing shareholders of Neinor will control 93 per cent of the company, while Quabit holders of class A shares will hold 7 per cent (through an exchange ratio of one share of Neinor for every 25.9650 class A shares of Quabit). In addition, a debt restructuring already underway will be carried out.

Neinor's Board of Directors will not suffer any changes with regard to the current one, and the company will continue to be led by the current CEO, Borja García-Egotxeaga and the deputy CEO/CFO, Jordi Argemi. Felix Abanades, the current CEO and Chairman of Quabit, will become a senior advisor to Neinor.
