EY Abogados has promoted Olga Cecilia, José Luis Risco, Manuel Paz and Marcos Pérez to new equity partners, and Florencia Gaido and José Carnerero to non-equity partners

EY Abogados continues with its policy of attracting and retaining talent despite the complex macroeconomic environment derived from the pandemic. The firm has promoted a total of 115 professionals for the new fiscal year, which runs from July 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021. Six of the promotions have been to partner. As new equity partners: in the People Advisory Services Olga Cecilia (pictured top left) and José Luis Risco (pictured top center), in the Tax area Manuel Paz (pictured top right) and Marcos Pérez (pictured bottom left). As non-equity partners: in the Tax area Florencia Gaido (pictured bottom right) and in the Legal area

On these promotions, Rocío Reyero and Ramón Palacín, co-managing partners of EY Abogados, said: "Organisations are facing relevant regulatory changes in a truly complicated global context. We have professionals who are widely recognised in their respective disciplines, which allows us to provide the comprehensive and high value-added advice that companies need in order to make the right decisions for the survival and growth of their businesses. We will continue to expand our teams with new talent and to promote internal professional careers."
