Barcelona-headquartered law firm FJM Advocats has appointed two new partners, Marta Cortés Bru and Alfredo Bayón Cama (both pictured).

Both the new partners specialise in labour law.

Marta Cortés Bru, who joined FJM Advocats in November 2009, specialises in handling social security matters, as well as issues related to collective representation and immigration.

Alfredo Bayón, who joined the firm in 2017, is a mediator and also a professor of labour law at ESADE.

The promotions mean the firm now has eight partners in total.
