Gómez-Acebo & Pombo has hired Constantino Pérez as of counsel for its Corporate & Commercial practice area

Gómez-Acebo & Pombo strengthens its Corporate & Commercial area with the incorporation of Constantino Pérez Salgado, who will also be the LATAM coordinator to promote the firm's growth in the region.

Since his arrival at the firm, he has been working closely with Santiago Gómez-Acebo and Francisco Gil, partners in charge of Latin America within Gómez-Acebo & Pombo's International Strategy Committee.

Pérez Salgado (pictured) is qualified to practice law in Spain and New York, and has over 13 years of experience in national and international transactions (particularly in Latin America), including financing, capital markets and M&A operations.

Constantino comes from Shearman & Sterling LLP in New York, where he was part of the Securities Markets team specializing in Latin America. Previously, he was a lawyer at Cuatrecasas (Barcelona and New York), Chadbourne & Parke (New York) and Brown Rudnick (New York).
