Gómez-Acebo & Pombo (GA_P) has advised Eutelsat, a French listed telecommunications company and leading global connectivity provider, in Spain and Portugal on the sale of the portfolio of more than one thousand customers of the Konnect satellite service to Eureka.

This operation stems from a previous agreement between Eutelsat and Hispasat under which the two companies formed an alliance to promote initiatives to reduce the digital divide in Spain and Portugal. Through this agreement, the French operator leased the satellite capacity of its Konnect satellite to Hispasat and, subsequently, Hispasat transferred the commercialisation of internet access services over this satellite to Eureka.

Eureka is a company specialised in connectivity services and solutions for rural and remote areas. With this sale and purchase, Eureka expands its service in Spain and enters the Portuguese country seeking to increase its business to individuals and to bring its satellite Internet service to places without connection to more countries.
