González Franco Abogados, the law firm led by José Ángel González Franco, has integrated the international firm Worth Street Group (WSG), a German law firm based in Munich with offices in Mexico City and New York.

Worth Street Group is a firm specialised in criminal law and international regulatory compliance. With this integration, Manuel Espinoza de los Monteros (pictured), until now co-head of WSG, becomes partner of González Franco's compliance department.

Espinoza de los Monteros has experience in international organisations, such as the European Commission and the UN, and offices in Germany, New York and Mexico, from where he has advised companies on compliance projects in more than 50 countries. At the academic level, he is a senior fellow at the Wharton School of Business, with doctoral studies in Germany.

Joining him in González Franco is his team of thirteen experts in the field. "The team that accompanies me is made up of criminal lawyers, many of whom are professors of criminal law in their respective countries," says the new partner.
