Iberian Lawyer July-August issue is now available for free download

Iberian Lawyer "On the Move" shows a Legal market shaken by the appointments of new managing partners at Hogan Lovells, Deloitte Legal, Andersen, Toda & Ne-lo and Montero Aramburu, together with several global and regional leadership appointments, along with two law firm integrations in Spain and Portugal.

In this issue, the Spanish version cover is dedicated to the law firms' new dress code tendencies after the pandemic. To do so we talk to experts from various fields of the Legal, Communication & Marketing and Human Resources sectors from firms with different profiles in Spain and Portugal, and with academic specialists, including a leading social media reference and public prosecutor, Escarlata Gutiérrez.

The English cover features the managing partner of RRP Advogados (EY Portugal), Ricardo Reigada Pereira, whose energy and enthusiasm make him one of a kind.

Also in this number, Portuguese law firms tell us if the effort required by social media "pays off", which the top platforms are, and where they are trying to attract younger audiences, among others. We offer a small ranking of firms on LinkedIn and Instagram, the two most used, along with Twitter in this market.

As our July-August in-house, Rui de Oliveira Neves, general counsel of the Galp Group, and Diolimar García, head of Corporate Legal for the Alarms and Corporate Affairs business of Prosegur for 26 countries.

Miguel Fernández Benavides, a 31-year-old lawyer in ONTIER's Litigation and Arbitration department and one of the editors of the Hay Derecho blog, is our July's "Young & Unstoppable". With him, we discuss important issues in the profession.

José Rivas, partner and head of Bird & Bird's Competition practice in Brussels and Spain, brings us relevant issues from the heart of the European Union, where everything is happening, on a new section titled "News from Brussels".

Finally, we talk to Pilar Sánchez-Bleda, partner and head of the Media & Technology area of Auren Spain, about the Auren Women's Leadership app that has been launched with the aim of promoting effective equality and female talent within the firm. The usual contributions by members of the World Compliance Association and Women in a Legal World complete this issue.
