The March issue of Iberian Lawyer is now available for free download

In this issue, we showcase the most inspiring women in the Spanish and Portuguese legal markets, with our 6th annual InspiraLaw event.

We interviewed Miriam González, the lawyer's #ThisLittlegirlisme initiative on LinkedIn, had the highest engagement of any campaign the social media platform has ever seen. From Spain, we had the pleasure to speak with Rocío Reyero, leader of EY Abogados' Tax practice in Western Europe. We also hear from Zahorí Matínez, Siemens Mobility España. In a wider reaching research piece, we spoke with representatives from some of the key law firms in Spain, to get the full picture on gender equality.

We couldn't ignore the ongoing crisis that started just a few days ago, and so we bring you an article on the EU sanctions in the face of Russia's invasion of Ukraine. Difficult and uncertain times remain ahead.

We analyse whether Green Investing is the future in "on the web," and if Portugal is ready for the legalisation of cannabis for recreational use. Also from Portugal, we hear from Isabel Fernandes, and her team's involvement in Grupo Visabeira's investment agreement for €200 million in growth capital from Goldman Sachs.

As we look to women for inspiration in this issue, what better choice for our law firm profile than Paula Gomes Freire. The new managing partner at VdA, explains to us the inner workings of her role and the future of the firm. Victor Artola Recolons is our Young & Unstoppable from ONTIER and Nuno Frota at Clyde & Co UK, rounds off our interviews, representing the international section.

Our collaborations by Women in a Legal World, World Compliance Association and The Coach Approach complete this issue, along with a flavour of international content from MAG.

The magazine is now available in English and Spanish.
