On his appointment, Andrés said: "After 11 years of professional development at Grant Thornton, in which I have not only contributed but, especially, received a great deal both personally and professionally, and where I have only found extraordinary professionals and friends, I begin a new stage in KPMG Spain as head of Corporate and M&A Law with the hope of tackling a great challenge and developing the practice area in the Valencian Community and Murcia. This is a moment of thanks, and I must first thank all the professionals at Grant Thornton with whom I have shared these years in one way or another and whom, in order not to make this message eternal, I will not mention expressly and, with special affection, the team at Tax & Legal Valencia, especially the latter with whom I have shared so much. I would like to thank KPMG Tax & Legal for the trust they have placed in me, making me a direct participant in this new stage of the firm itself at a time of change with the intention of promoting this area in Valencia and Murcia and allowing me to be part of it."
