Hogan Lovells, Allen & Overy and Cuatrecasas have advised on Aware Super's €600 million investment in Vivenio SOCIMI

Vivenio, the SOCIMI (REIT) owned by Renta Corporación and the Dutch fund APG, has welcomed Australian fund Aware Super as a shareholder, which has become a reference shareholder of the investment vehicle, together with APG, and has undertaken to invest a capital of €600 million, of which €400 million will be in the form of the purchase of shares and the remaining €200 million in additional investment.

The new partners have agreed on a share buy-back process so that at the end of the process APG and Aware Super will have an equal stake in Vivenio's share capital. The agreement includes a commitment by Aware Super to launch a tender offer to the remaining minority shareholders of Vivenio. Once parity is reached, APG and Aware Super have entered into an agreement to invest up to €400 million (€200 million each) in Vivenio over the next three years. As of today, an initial capital increase of the first €100 million, with pre-emptive subscription rights, has already been approved, and this entry into the capital and investment commitment is a further step in the growth of Vivenio, which has continued to invest and successfully manage residential real estate assets since its creation in 2017, consolidating its position as a benchmark SOCIMI in the Spanish market.

The agreement also involves the sale to Aware Super of Renta Corporación's 49% stake in Vivenio, a transaction that closes with a 40% capital gain on the book value of the stake and a significant cash inflow for the real estate company. Following this transaction, the real estate company will maintain its position as a minority shareholder and will continue to lead the asset acquisitions of the SOCIMI, which plans to invest €1 billion in asset purchases in the coming years.

A Hogan Lovells cross-border team comprising lawyers from the Madrid, Sydney and Brussels offices advised Aware Super.
