Lawyou has opened a funding round among private investors with the aim of initiating its international expansion in the Latin American market

According to the firm, the aim is to raise €500,000, which will allow the firm to initiate an investment strategy to undertake its international expansion in Latin America and increase its total number of partners to 50 by the end of 2019.

Javier Segura, president of Lawyou states that: "The market requires new innovative and disruptive solutions so that independent lawyers can compete in optimal conditions in an area that is increasingly complicated by the advancement of technology, the cultural change in demand for legal services and the need to know the customer experience."

Lawyou currently has a total of 36 partners.
