Metricson has launched its new tax department, which will be led by Emma Bover.

She has a degree in Law and Business Administration and Management. Bover has over twenty years of experience in advising large corporations and leading international mergers and acquisitions. She has also managed the financial and tax strategy of hundreds of start-ups around the world.

Bover is currently managing director of Metacorp, an accounting, tax and labour consultancy for start-ups, which she will combine with the management of the new tax area.

With this incorporation, Metricson consolidates its growth strategy. Its forecasts for 2022 predict an increase in turnover of more than 25% compared to 2021.
