Portuguese law firm MLGTS advised energy company EDP on the sale of its subsidiary Small Hydro to investment management company Aquila Capital.

Aquila Capital was advised by Uría Menéndez-Proença de Carvalho on the deal, which was valued at €164 million.

Small Hydro owns 21 small hydroelectric plants in north and central Portugal, which have a capacity of 103 megawatts, according to EDP.

The MLGTS team was led by partner Ricardo Andrade Amaro (pictured) and included managing associate Diana Ribeiro Duarte and associate Helder M. Mourato.
