Monereo Meyer Abogados has recruited Félix Izquierdo as an associate in its tax department.

Izquierdo has a degree in law from the University of Salamanca, and a master's degree in tax consultancy for companies from the Instituto de Empresa. He also took the competitive examinations for the Superior Corps of State Treasury Inspectors (Cuerpo Superior de Inspectores de Hacienda del Estado). He is also a member of the Madrid Bar Association.

Gustavo Yanes, partner in charge of the firm's tax team, said: "The incorporation of Felix strengthens the team, adding to it the vision of rigorous and profound law that we always look for in our professionals and that benefits, without a doubt, the crossborder advice we offer".

Monereo Meyer Abogados specialises in providing legal advice to international companies from German-speaking countries on their activities in Spain. The firm currently has 35 lawyers, of which 11 are partners.
