Olleros Abogados has signed a strategic alliance with the Portuguese law firm Nobre Guedes, Mota Soares & Associados (NGMS).

The alliance will be known as Olleros Nobre Guedes.

A statement said: "Both firms will respect each other's independence and singularity and will contribute with skills and professionals in order to offer advice in all legal areas – therewith, Olleros Nobre Guedes offers a comprehensive service from its head offices in Madrid and Lisbon."

It added: "Our clients will benefit from the experience of both firms, as well as from the alliances and international agreements of each of the firms with third parties – in particular, Olleros Nobre Guedes emerges with large capacities in Cuba due to Olleros' experience on the island, a direct link with Africa, especially Angola and Mozambique, as well as important liaisons with Latin America, with a significant presence in Brazil."
