PwC Tax & Legal has hired Silvia Mañá (pictured) as a new partner in the urban planning area led by José Américo.

Mañá holds a law degree and a master's degree in land and environmental law from the Pompeu Fabra University and has more than 20 years of professional experience in advising on administrative law, urban planning law, environmental law, public procurement and regulated sectors.

She has developed her professional experience in different firms such as Fieldfisher, Roca Junyent or Cuatrecasas. She has also been director of the real estate law department at Tornos Abogados.

Through this new incorporation, the firm seeks to boost PwC Tax & Legal's regulatory practice, which is made up of a team of more than 50 professionals.
