The Spanish Union of Airline Pilots (SEPLA) has recruited Jimena Fernández and Teresa Perea to reinforce its Legal department and to adapt it to the current reality of the sector

As SEPLA informed, its Legal department has been recently reinforced by the new incorporations of Jimena Fernández (pictured left), with experience in legal consultancy at KPMG and EY, and Teresa Perea (pictured right), who has previously worked for prestigious firms such as Roca Junyent or Montero Aramburu. In addition, Beatriz Bariego will continue to be part of the firm's legal team, both in the labour and aeronautical areas.

These incorporations are part of the renewing and strengthening process of its Legal department. Óscar Orgeira, a labour lawyer with a long career within SEPLA, where he has worked since 2000, will lead the team, and Nerea Cañas, director of Institutional Relations, and one of the most specialized aeronautical lawyers in Spain, will lead the aeronautical area. Susana Ruiz continues to in charge of legal advice of Iberia Union area, with Jorge Cano, former Iberia pilot, as a lawyer and external advisor.
