The Ministry of Justice is preparing a telematic Bar admission exam in July, after the one scheduled for March 28 had to be delayed due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The test, to which 6,780 candidates were expected to apply at different locations throughout Spain, was postponed on March 10, several days before the state of alarm was declared, due to the "incidence" that the Covid-19 was already having on the population. The second annual test could be held around October.
