Rúben Gaspar is the new head of Human Resources at SPS Advogados. Gaspar will report directly to the partners Filipa Ruano Pinto and Nédia da Fonseca Nunes.

A spokesperson from the firm said: "SPS Advogados has grown organically with a permanent commitment to human capital, because we know that our greatest asset is people. At a time when we have moved to a hybrid paradigm, it is important to welcome people in their comfort and happiness, corporate socialisation and a sense of community, so that they feel they are working in the right place! The current project of the Human Resources of SPS Advogados is based on a surgical look at the culture and cohesion of the firm. At the same time, it maintains the focus on growth through quality and increasingly customised services, and the team spirit of all its professionals. Each person's work counts towards a single objective and final result."

The spokesperson added: "Leading this project we welcome Rúben Gaspar, a graduate in Human Resources, with a Master's degree in Labour Sciences and Labour Relations, who transfers from Grupo Tâmega, and comes to add to SPS a vision of multidisciplinary and innovation, in perfect symbiosis with the objectives of SPS Advogados."
