Odilo, an EdTech with a mission to improve global literacy by democratising access to high-quality education, has raised €60 million in an investment round led by Bregal Milestone.

Odilo is a spanish startup that allows companies, schools, universities and other institutions to create their own educational 'Netflix', offering their users access to a huge number of content providers in all formats.

Odilo's customers include government organisations, libraries, education institutions and corporates, ranging from the likes of Google, Vodafone, Beijing University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology to the Government of Calgary in Canada.

Bregal Milestone is an european technology growth capital firm focused on providing strategic assistance to market leading technology companies.

The team from Squire Patton advising on this deal was formed by the Partner of corporate/M&A, Teresa Zueco (pictured top left); the Legal Director, Rocío García (pictured bottom right), and the associates from corporate/M&A: Alejandra Castañeda (pictured bottom left) and Álvaro Luaces (pictured top right).

KPMG Abogados acted for Bregal Milestone to perform both Tax due diligence work and Tax structuring with Olatz Muñiz, associate M&A Tax, Jordi Hernández, director in Tax ICT and Nieves Prat, senior manager in Tax.
